ARCHEOLOGY

Course 4

ADD ON COURSE

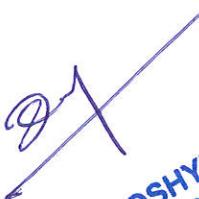

AN INTRODUCTION TO ARCHAEOLOGY

Archaeology is the scientific study of past cultures and the way people lived, based on the things they left behind. The aim of archaeology is to extend our insight - as far as the development of humans and their culture is concerned - into the distant past, back to the period in which humans first appear as creators of culture. The material on which this investigation is based comprises the concrete cultural objects that have handed down to us by peoples who no longer exist, and that are obtained mainly by excavation, although other methods are used as well.

Artefacts give important information regarding the culture of extinct people. Artefacts may be used in religious, economic and political activities and this enables the archaeologist to draw inferences regarding these activities from a study of artefacts. Archaeologists not only work on single sites, but by studying the material remains found in related sites, also attempt to reconstruct past cultures.

Eligibility - Candidates who have studied History in 10+2 are eligible to pursue Archaeology in UG level. The duration of the course is six months. Classes are scheduled on the first and third Saturday of every month from August to January.

Career Opportunities - In India archaeologists work in the Archaeological Survey of India, Department of the Ministry of External Affairs, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, Defence Services, Council of Cultural Relations, Indian Council of Historical Research - in its exploration, excavation, epigraphy, pre-history and museum branches. There are other various heritage bodies and some foreign universities and foundations that are involved in urban conservation or excavations.

WATER ANALYSIS

Course 5

Department of Chemistry

Christian College, Chengannur

Announcement of value added course in Water Quality analysis

The department conducts a value added course in Water Quality Analysis intended to equip the students with an additional skill that would complement their knowledge and skill from the course and subject of their study. This is a 15 hours course comprising the theory and practical demonstrations on the essentials of water quality testing. With the water bodies surrounding us becoming polluted day by day due to inputs from domestic, agricultural and industrial activities one needs to be aware of the quality of drinking water, safe and wholesome water and its requirements, criteria and standards of water quality and how to sample water for physical, chemical and bacteriological examination. The course also introduces you to the use of water analysis kits.

Course content:

Environment and its analysis [1h]-Environment-introduction-pollutants-classification-need of analysis-various pollutants.

Water sampling-collection-handling-preservation.

Water Analysis [2h] - Physical parameters-colour, temperature, transparency, turbidity.

Chemical parameters-pH, electrical conductivity, TDS, DO, free Cl, alkalinity, chloride, hardness- total, temporary & permanent, BOD & COD.

Water Treatment [2h]-Industrial water treatment-ultrafiltration, electro-osmosis, ion exchange resins, disinfection-WHO standards.

Demonstration and practice [1Oh]-Analysis of physical parameters-determination of chemical parameters- water quality kit introduction and usage.

Please note the classes will be conducted outside normal college hours and holidays.

For enrolling in the course please contact Head of the Department.

LaTeX

A Typesetting Programme

LaTeX is a document preparation system, a high-quality typesetting system which includes features designed for the production of technical and scientific documentation and it is available as a free software. It is a computer programming language used for typesetting technical documents. LaTeX is a free software package created in 1985 by the American computer scientist Leslie Lamport as an addition to the TeX typesetting system. It helps to write long documents, manuscripts, engineering and scientific text.

Department of Mathematics plans to conduct a short term course on LaTeX-document setting for 15 hours. Those who are interested to participate please contact Sri. Arun Kumar E.S.
